

Kulay Kalingka Study profile

From July to December 2023, almost 2000 people completed the survey. This is what you told us.

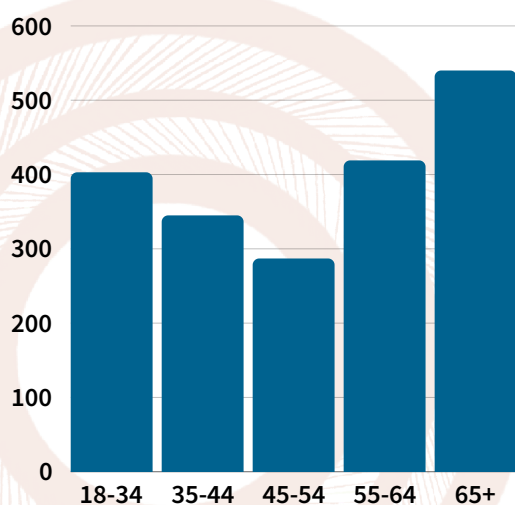

Kulay
Kalingka

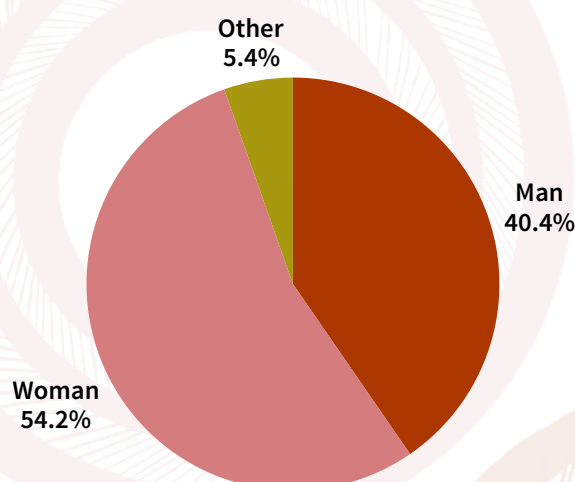

Where you live

Age group

Gender

72% people in the Kulay Kalingka Study had not received a cancer diagnosis whereas 28% had.

6 in 10 people believe that cancer is common among Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people.

Kulay Kalingka Study profile

From July to December 2023, almost 2000 people completed the survey. This is what you told us.

Kulay
Kalingka

Approximately 80% of people believed that you could develop cancer without having any symptoms present.

For those receiving care for cancer:

-  59% of people found having an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander person assist with interpretation and communication to be helpful
-  52% of people preferred having access to someone who understands culture
-  48% of people liked having an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander person to talk to for support
-  42% of people wanted family members to be present when talking to health professionals

91.4% of eligible people in the Study without a cancer diagnosis have ever participated in breast cancer screening

90.7% of eligible people in the Study without a cancer diagnosis have ever participated in cervical cancer screening

86.4% of eligible people in the Study without a cancer diagnosis have ever participated in bowel cancer screening